

PKMS Chrome Print Fixture

The print pipeline turns web pages into fixed layout documents. What the browser renders is what the reader gets, byte for byte.

Chrome uses the same font metrics on every run, so the output of this page is stable across machines and across time.

This fixture exists to test text extraction from browser output, the second most common source of real world PDF files.